

Ray Johnson

Canadian Food Inspection Agency

Ray Johnson has been the Section Head, Grapevine Diagnostic Program at the Centre for Plant Health, Sidney Laboratory, CFIA, Sidney, BC, Canada since 1980. He graduated in 1975 with a BSA (entomology) from the University of Manitoba and in 1988 with a MSc. (plant virology) from the University of British Columbia. He started with the Canadian government in 1975, first with the Food Production and Inspection Branch of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, moving to the Canadian Food Inspection Agency when it was formed in 1997. Prior to his current position he supervised a potato virus testing lab under the Canadian Seed Potato Certification Program and did Import/Export inspection. He was the chairperson of the North American Plant Protection Organization Grapevine Panel and is co-chairperson of the recently amalgamated NAPPO Fruit Tree and Grapevine Panel. He is a committee member of the International Council for the Study of Viruses and Virus-like Diseases of the Grapevine.