

Dr. Cédric Saucier

Associate Professor in the Chemistry Department University of British Columbia-Okanagan

Dr. Saucier is currently Associate Professor in the Chemistry Department at the University of British Columbia-Okanagan. His research interest concerns wine ageing, polyphenols, proteins, sensory properties (taste). His education was a PhD in Enology (supervised by Drs Y. Glories and D. Roux) at the University of Bordeaux, France and a Master of physics at the University of Grenoble, France. His previous professional experience includes nine years as an assistant professor at the Enology Department of the University of Bordeaux and one year as a post doctoral research fellow at the University of California Davis supervised by Dr Waterhouse).